in Lisbon in 1614.- Pinto (1509-1583), a Portuguese adventurer, embarked for India in 1537 desiring to try his fortunes in the East. He was shipwrecked on the island of Tanixumaa (Japan) in 1542 and thus was the first European to enter Japan. After years as trader and adventurer in South-east Asia, China, Indonesia and India, Pinto returned to Portugal. After arriving in 1558 he wrote his famous 'Peregrinations', published 30 years after his death in 1614. Pinto made four visits to Japan, he also gives first hand accounts of India, Abyssinia, Malacca, Sumatra, Java, Chine, Tartary etc. 'It is, moreover, a classic record of the experiences and observations of one of the earliest Europeans to penetrate into the interior of oriental countries, which, in that era, were practically unknown.' (Cox). Although many of his described adventures were too fantastic to be believed and earned him the sobriquet 'Prince of Lies', he was indeed the first known European to enter Japan. - Age-browned, otherwise a fine copy.

First Dutch edition; extracted from Commelin's collection of voyages. - This account of Verhoeff's voyages is a composite piece. It starts with the journal by the chief merchant Johan de Moelre and continued, after he was killed, by the fleet's treasurer Jacques Le Febure. Followed by extracts from the journal of Reynier Dirckszoon, the pilot aboard one of the ships which sailed to Japan, and the journal of Jacob Specx and Pieter Segerszoon also on Japan. This piece is followed by a report by Samuel Bloemaert about trade and negotiations on Borneo and Appolonius Schotte's accounts of the Moluccas and Gillis Seys report of 1627 on Amboina. These materials constitute a rich source of information about the expansion of Dutch power in the Moluccas, the negotiations with the inlanders, the war with the Spaniards, the details of trade, and the daily life of the Dutch stationed there. This account of Verhoeff's voyage was never separately reprinted during the 17th century. (Lach & Kley, III, p.471-472).
