First German edition, first published in French in 1788, Voyage du jeune Anacharsis en Grèce. Abbé J.J. Barthélemy's (1716-1795) magnum opus is fiction, the product of thirty years study of ancient, medieval and modern authors. The work became immense popular and its influence was far greater than that of any other travel account previously published. More than forty editions appeared and translations were made into almost every European language throughout the 19th century. Although there had been earlier attempts to popularize what was known of Greek antiquity, none was so immediately successful and influential as Barthélemy's Anacharsis, which played an important part in the development both of neoclassicism and philhellenic sentiment in France (*Contomina*s p. 17). - (Age-browned). - A fine set.

The Grand Tour

19 BRENNAN, Michael G. (Ed.). The origins of the grand tour. The travels of Robert Mantague, Lord Mandeville (1649-1654), William Hammond (1655-1658), Banaster Maynard (1660-1663). London, 2004. 8vo. Cloth, with dust-jacket. With 49 illustrations and plates. XVII,331 pp. € 45,00

Hakluyt Society, 3rd series, 14. - The longterm English fascination with the Grand Tour was firmly rooted in the mid-tudor and early Stuart periods. Such travels were usually prompted by one of three reasons: the prectical needs of diplomacy, the aesthetic allure of cultural tourism, and the expediencies of political or religious exile.

From all parts of the world

20 BUYS, M(arius). Uit alle werelddeelen. Merkwaardige ontdekkingen, avonturen te land en ter zee, tafereelen uit het leven der natuur en der volken, enz. Leiden, D. Noothoven van Goor, (1878). 2 volumes in 1. Later half cloth. (6),288; VIII,404 pp. € 295,00

First published in English A Northern summer, or travels round the Baltic, through Denmark, Sweden, Russia, Prussia and part of Germany, in the year 1804. London 1805. - John Carr (1772-1772) was called to the bar at the Middle Temple, but from reasons of health found it advisable to travel, and published accounts of his journeys in different European countries, which though without much intrinsic merit, obtained a wide circulation on account of their light, gossipy style, and the fact that in the species if literature there was then comparatively little competition (DNB). - (Hole in title-page).

Muller, Bibliographie Neerlando-Russe, 770; Catalogue Russica C148; not in Tiele or Cat. NHSM.

The Russo - Turkish war of 1828-29

- 24 CHESNEY, Francis Rawdon. The Russo-Turkish campaigns of 1828 and 1829: with a view of the present state of affairs in the East. 2nd edition. London, Smith, Elder & Co., Bombay, Smith, Taylor & co, 1854. Original embossed green cloth. With two folding maps, coloured in outline. XXXVIII, 448; (16) pp. € 225,00

Three editions were issued in 1854. - Colonel Francis Rawdon Chesney went to Constantinople in 1829 with the intention of joining the Turkish forces, but he was delayed by a tour of inspection of Syria and Egypt, and the peace of Adrianople was announced just as he arrived. In this work, composed of materials collected on the spot, he has provided an account of the Russo - Turkish war of 1828-29, and in the final chapter he gives a history of past and present Russo-Turkish wars and a background to the Eastern Question. (Atabey p. I18). Chesney was clearly an explorer of the first order and his courage and perseverance were matched only by his attention to detail and thoroughness in the surveys he produced. - (Some foxing).

Atabey Collection 235; not in Blackmer.

Amsterdam, K. van Tongerlo & F. Houttuin, 1763.

4to. Contemporary half calf (boards with later marbled paper). With illustration and 16 engraved plates (13 folding). XII,(4),522,(18) pp. € 1.650,00

Second and best edition, first published in 1737. - Pieter de la Court van der Voort (1664-1739) was, through his wife, the owner of the Berbice country estate in Voorschoten from 1688 to 1716. Under his leadership, the property grew into a beautiful country estate with a formal garden layout that was customary for the time, with an orangery, barge house, orchards, a walled vegetable garden and several experimental espalier fruit walls. He designed the Berbice orangery from 1696 after he had traveled around Europe to gain knowledge and inspiration. His international network was large and included people like Tsar Peter the Great of Russia, who even came to Berbice to admire the orangery. Pieter is the first to get a pineapple to flower and fruit in the Netherlands, which was very special at that time. His knowledge about growing (tropical) fruits and his ideas about the construction and design of country estates became widespread with the publication of his book. Because it was also translated into French and German, it reached an unprecedentedly wide audience. - The first book on succesful ananas-growing in Europe. - (Age-browned).

Russia

- 29 CRÉHANGE, Gaston. Histoire de la Russie. Depuis la mort de Paul Ier jusqu'à nos jours. Paris, Germer Bailliére et Cie, 1882.

Turkey

32 DREW GAY, J. Plevna, the Sultan and the Porte; reminiscences of the war in Turkey. London, Chatto and Windus, 1878.

Original red cloth (sl. soiled). VI,(1),298; 40 pp.

€ 375,00

First edition. - With the bookplate of Sefik E. Atabey. - During my stay in Turkey as Special Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, it was my high privilege to have unusual facilities for obtaining information respecting what inspired within the Palace, the Seraskierate, and the Porte. It was, moreover, my fortune to be present at the heavy fighting which, early in September 1877, took place at Plevna. What I heard at Constantinople, and what I witnessed on the memorable battlefields where Osman Pasha and his gallant army gained for themselves and their country undying renown, I have transcribed, and to my observations appended sundry notes respecting the present condition and what I take to be the needs of Turkey in the future' (Preface). - Rare.

The Netherlands - Utrecht

33 DU ROY, Bernard.

Nieuwe kaart van den lande van Utrecht. Amsterdam, Johannes Covens & Cornelis Mortier, 1743.

Engraved wall map after G. Hoet by T. Doesburgh. 40 sheets pasted on linen. With fine large cartouche, several cities coloured in red and the Nieuwe Hollandse Waterlinie (New Dutch Waterline) is shown in blue. Ca. 124 x 193 cm.

€ 1.450,00

The first edition from a total of four editions, was published by Nicolas Visscher in 1696; this is the second, revised edition. - The rare wall map shows Utrecht in the centre, Amsterdam with the Haarlemmermeer in the northwest. In the north Naarden at the Zuiderzee (now Gooimeer) up to Schoonhoven, Nieuwpoort, Leerdam, Asperen and Heukelum in the south. It shows cities, villages and settlements and the differentiation of the land ownerships. The boundaries of the polders of the entire region with the designation of the owners are presented. Also depicted are drainage canals, windmills, landscape areas, ornamental gardens, as well as larger buildings and churches. The large Dutch wall maps are rare because most of the copies were used in their actual purpose to decorate the walls of the houses of the wealthy citizens. Those examples have not been preserved in most cases. This fine wall map is one of the most famous and spectacular graphic representations of the province of Utrecht, it was authoritative until the 19th century.

United Kingdom

41 FINDEN & BARTLETT, William Henry. The ports, harbours, watering-places, and coast scenery of Great Britain. Illustrated by views taken on the spot, by W.H. Bartlett; with descriptions by William Beattie. London, George Virtue, 1842.
2 volumes. 4to. Contemporary richly decorated gilt morocco, rebacked with the original gilt spines laid down (rubbed), a.e.g. With frontispiece portrait of Queen Victoria, woodcut of Blackwall and 125 steelengravings (incl. 2 frontispieces and title-pages), with the tissue guards. (4),190; (4),155 pp. € 375,00

The first edition was issued in 1838 Finden's ports, harbours and watering places of Great Britain.

This is the revised, much enlarged edition. - The plates present the harbours and shores of England, Scotland and Wales in the most dramatic, picturesque, or romantic light possible. Depictions of port cities range from stormy scenes of wreckage to calm sunny days. The romantic views by William Henry Bartlett (1809-1854) are among the best produced in the 19th century. The plate of the lighthouse of Berwick in volume one is shown as title-vignette in volume two. William Beattie (1793-1875) wrote the descriptions. - (Some light foxing as usual). - A staggering work with the 'Views taken on the spot'.

Turkey

- 59 JENKINS, Hester Donaldson. Behind Turkish lattices. The story of a Turkish life. London, Chatto & Windus, 1911. Original decorated green cloth, top edge gilt. With 24 photographic plates. IX,180 pp. € 175,00

First edition. - Hester Donaldson Jenkins (1869-1941), a professor at the American College for Girls in Constantinople from 1900-1909, wrote enthusiastically about the Young Turks who seemed to promise new freedoms for Ottoman women.

Jenkins uses her own observations of Constantinople, her students, and their families to construct an account of a "typical" Turkish Muslim woman's life cycle at this turning point in Ottoman history. She directs her comments toward childhood, education, marriage, polygamy, and divorce, in order to correct Western misapprehensions. In its confidence in the bright prospects of American influence and Ottoman reform, this book captures an optimistic moment in which social progress seemed to be thriving (Text from the reprint).

- 63 JONG, Cornelius de. Tweede reize naar de Middellandsche Zee, gedaan in de jaren 1783, 1784 en 1785. Haarlem, François Bohn, 1807
Contemporary half green morocco, spine lettered in gilt. With 2 engraved folding plates of Algiers and Minorca. XVI,431 pp. € 550,00

First edition. - The second voyage (1783 - 1785) to the Mediterranean by the Dutch naval-officer Cornelius de Jong Van Rodenburgh (1762-1838), made in the ship Prins Willem in command by Cornelis van Gennip to the Mediterranean, includes long description of Algiers. De Jong wrote his travel memoirs in the form of letters to a fictional friend. It was a narrative form that had been used for many 18th century novels, but was still special for travel descriptions. It meant that De Jong was not too bound to a strict retelling of his travels, that he could elaborate to his heart's content on topics that he thought his audience would find interesting, and that he could address his reader directly (Rooper & Wildeman, Reizen op papier, p. 104). - (Some library stamps).

Three editions appeared in 1877. - The number of editions may be due to the events of 1876, but this book by two British school teachers is still important for an understanding of the complex nature of this part of the Balkans. Miss Irby and Miss MacKenzie travelled in Serbia and the Balkans from 1861 to 1864, during which time they established a teacher-training school in Sarajevo (Atabey p.377). Georgina Mary Muir Mackenzie (1833-1874) and Adelina Paulina Irby (1831-1911) spent 1861-1864 where few outside women had been before. They undertook researches to a much greater degree than their more genteel contemporaries. Their descriptions of landscapes and people are not over-romantic, but they provide ample local colour (Theakstone p.170). Valuable information on the peoples of the former Yugoslavia, i.a. Slovenia, Bosnia, Croatia, Serbia and Montenegro. - A fine set.

Charles François Philibert Masson (1762-1807) was a member of the Institut de France. He started his career as an apprentice watchmaker in Neuchâtel, but he was more interested in the arts and traveled to Russia where he became the tutor of the children of Count Nikolaj Ivanovitsj Saltykov, the Minister of War. The count made him his major domus. He made himself popular in the élite of Saint Petersburg through his wit, his taste in literature and his conversation and was popular in the great houses of Saint Petersburg and at court but the tyrannical Czar Paul I expelled him from Russia as an outspoken sympathiser of the French Revolution. He lived in Germany for a while before returning to France where he published his Mémoires secrets sur la Russie.

First published in 1763; with written owner's name Moseley 1767. - Lady Mary Worthy Montague (1689-1762) was the first lady to travel abroad for mere curiosity's sake. In 1716 she accompanied her husband, Edward Montague, on his diplomatic mission to Constantinople, making the journey overland. The letters she wrote back home are justly ranked among the most celebrated of their kind in a century richly endowed with excellent letterwriters. She became a great admirer of Turkish culture and her work includes in sights that were exceptional for their time. A year after her death, her Turkish letters were published for the first time and they have not been out of print since. 'She was one of the most generous and accurate chroniclers of life in Constantinople since Busbecq' (O'Neill, The Ömer Koç Collection, 138). 'She established the genre of European women's travel writing. Opinionated, energetic and flamboyant, they present a seductive, sophisticated and challenging vision of the European encounter with the Orient and they set a standard to which many subsequent writers aspired but few ever achieved' (Tuson, Western women travelling East, p.31).

First edition. - Sir Charles Ash Windham (1810 - 1870) was a British Army officer and Liberal Party politician. Promoted colonel on 20 June 1854, Windham was assistant quartermaster-general of the 4th Division in Crimea and was present, but saw little action, at the battles of Alma River, Balaklava, and Inkerman. He was outspoken in his criticism of laggard British military leadership in the Crimea. Given command of the assault on the Great Redan at Sevastopol on 8 Sept. 1855, he personally rode back to ask for reinforcements after suffering heavy losses, but a retreat had been ordered. He was criticized by soldiers for his conduct but made a popular hero by William Howard Russell, correspondent of the Times, for having "saved the honour of the army. With preface by Charles Windham jr. and an introductory chapter by W.H. Russell, famous for his reports on The Crimean War for Times Newspaper.
