Wiert Adels was steersman for the ship De Bloeyende Blom which was bringing grain from the Baltic port of Libau. A Duinkerker privateer seized his ship but after a few days he managed to recapture his ship and to seize the chief of the privateers and to throw him overboard. Thus he succeeded to bring his ship into Hellevoetsluis in 1794. This fine engraved portrait of a brave sailor was done by the mezzotint master Hodges (1764-1837) after a drawing by Perkois (1756-1804).

€ 450,00

Third edition, first published in 1687. - Biography of one of the most famous admirals in Dutch history, Michiel Adriaenszn. de Ruyter (1607-1676), also of great interest for Dutch political and economic history. Dealing with the early voyages to Jan Mayen Island (whaling), Morocco (Barbary Coast), during this time his esteem grew among other Dutch captains as he would regularly free Christian slaves by redeeming them at his own expense, and the Baltic: he managed to liberate Nyborg in 1659, for this he was knighted by the Danish king Frederick III of Denmark. After he recaptured Guinea on the English in 1664 he crossed the Atlantic to raid the English colonies in America. Visited the Caribbean islands, delivered supplies to the Dutch colony of St. Eustatius, and was engaged in Spanish-Dutch sea-fights and conquests. Giving the damage he had sustained at a certain moment he decided against an assault on New York to retake New-Netherland. He fought the English in the first three Anglo-Dutch Wars. His most famous exploit was against the English fleet: the Raid on the Medway in 1667. He sailed up the Thames to Chatham and burned three ships and captured the English flagship HMS Royal Charles, which he took with him back to Holland. It was a costly and embarrassing defeat for the English. On 18 March 1678 De Ruyter was given a state funeral when his body was buried in the Nieuwe Kerk in Amsterdam. He was succeeded as supreme commander by Cornelis Tromp in 1679.. Cat. NHSM II, p.44; Sabin 7405; European Americana V, B701/48.

Waves from a worn ocean sky; a ship of timber suddenly comes upon the startled eye, and attention holds up for a moment, and, if the ship is not repeated, vanishes and soon forgets. Not so the hideous marine. Dismayed of the swelling waves, the seaman sees his ship, but she is not a vessel with helm in hand, watching the onset of the sudden tempest; she is a vessel with no helm, impelled by the tempest, till helped by day arrives with its obscuring lights and more towering billows. Different is the fate of the misery national. The tempest comes with the ship, and the agonies of his afflicted crew tell the doleful story of helpless shipwrecked men, who have lost all, and are left to their doomed crew. The billings move in God's love, but its anchor only remains in the bosom of the afflicted few who have lost all in the tempest.

But what of the weaks of a great State—of a Government—of a nation? What of the millions of its slaves? What of its provinces, with its hopes? Here, too, sympathy nor sorrow are in place. The magnitude of the loss appeals to higher human nature, but the actual suffering is too minute to demand—distrust upon the penalties due to the massive crimes of how many—blameless, innocent, or guilty, but all slaves by circumstance. The penalties indeed follow big, ill, not only do they come to the guilty few, but to the guiltless many; and to them they come in every form of human misery — is
